PHILADRIPHIA, October 17.—The Protestant Episcopal Convention considered the tentative use of the proposed altera-tions and additions to the Prayer Book as unwise and deemed inexpedient such legislation as will allow the establishment of a Court of Appeals; also as to the pro-posed canon for the trial of presbyters and The committee reported adversely relatively to the resolutions of the Rev. Mr.

Three Hundred All-Wool Jerseys of the Rev. Mr.

Harkins, for raising $100,000,000 for the establishment of church schools. The Committee on Expenses reports that the cost of the Convention in 1877 was $11,400; of 1880, $9500. The present Convention started with $500 in the treasury. The report contained resolutions that the salary of the secretary of the House of Bishops be $300 the first year, and $100 for each succeeding year; that the salary of the secretary of the House
